

An old Chinese proverb proclaims, "A journey of a thousand miles starts with the first step." Joining Parmasters Golf Training Center was the beginning of my path to golfing respectability. Being a weekend hacker had only been a frustrating experience. Holding up play because of my inability to consistently hit a decent golf shot, constantly losing expensive golf balls, embarrassing myself on the first tee with fellow golfers looking on, did not add up to many pleasurable golf outings.

From the first moment that I attended the two hour "How to Hit the Ball Straight Every Single Time" workshop, I decided that Parmasters' concept of Straight-Line Golf made sense. The next step in my journey to golf respectability was participating in the eight hour Straight-Line Golf Clinic. The golf swing was broken down into its basic components and drills and exercises were taught. I immediately noticed a great improvement in my swing. I decided to enroll in the twenty four session "Open Series" of private lessons. The money back guarantee was quite appealing. After completing four lessons I went to a course and improved my regular score (120) by 15 strokes (105). But more importantly, I hit the ball consistently straight. After ten lessons I started to break 100 and again, most importantly, my self-esteem was restored on the golf course. Last week I shot a 93.

I can attest that Straight-Line Golf works, that Parmaster Golf Center is a friendly, professionally staffed venue where one can become proficient in that not so inscrutable game of golf.

Zachary Rubin
July 18, 2004